Lake Superior

What Great Lake is the largest in the USA and has one tenth of all the fresh water on the earth? It is Lake Superior. It was found by Jean Nicolet. Its name means “upper lake” in French.

It even goes across the border between the United States and Canada.

Why is Lake Superior unique? It took billions of years to form. The landscape around Lake Superior is unchanged. It is 31,700 square miles (81,000 square km) and is about 1,000 feet (about 300m) deep. It is almost as large as New England. Lake Superior is 22 feet higher than all the other Great Lakes. Its waters are as clear as crystal with temperature of about 39 degrees Fahrenheit (4 degrees C) which differs little in summer and winter. The areas near the shore become very warm in summer and freeze during the coldest weather.

Do you know which Great Lake has shipwrecks on the floor of it? Lake Superior does. A lot of people lost their boats in this Great Lake, too. Shipwrecks are good habitats for fish. There are 45 species of fish in the lake.

Unlike many other lakes, there are a lot of reefs in Lake Superior.

The Soo Locks were built to connect Lake Huron to Lake Superior.

Horses and camels live around Lake Superior.

The lake has 9 islands. The largest island in Lake Superior is Isle Royal. It is partly situated in Lake Michigan, too.
